

Assessment Guidelines

- Is the person mentally sharp and able to make informed decisions? Do they know who they are, where they are, and what is happening?
Don't assume confusion is due to intoxication.
- How is their physical health? Do they have a cold, diabetes, heart problems, or a disability?
- Are they under the influence of drugs or alcohol?
- Have they had access to regular meals and hydrating fluids?
- Do they have access to dry blankets, clothes, socks, and shoes?
- Do they have a plan to stay warm and supplies to do so? See if they will explain their plan to you. Do they have a back up plan or a way to get help if anything changes?
- Make sure they know all their options. What can you help with? If you feel like they are at risk, please call an outreach worker, the Cold Patrol* (in Levels 2-4), or the non-emergency number* to request a wellness check.

Signs of Hypothermia

- Pale, cold skin
- Uncontrollable shivering or no longer feeling cold
- Loss of coordination and difficulty speaking
- Confusion and altered mental status
- Fatigue, drowsiness, and low energy
- Lack of concern about one's condition
- If you see these signs, seek medical help immediately. Call 911 or transport to the hospital while rewarming.

Safety Tips

- Don't go out alone and make sure someone knows where you are at all times.
- Keep your phone sufficiently charged and program pertinent numbers.
- Pay attention to your intuition—your gut.
- Dress warmly. Stay hydrated and eat often.
- Remember... no one can do this work alone!

Strategies for Reaching People Who are Not Ready to Come In

If someone is a danger to themselves or others due to a mental health or developmental issue:

- If it is safe to do so, stay with them until help arrives. Make sure someone else knows where you are. Try to keep them calm.
- If they are suicidal, call Mobile Crisis* to request an assessment.
- If they are an adult who cannot make their own decisions, consult with a trained outreach worker or volunteer about calling Adult Protective Services.*
- If all else fails, call 911 (last resort).

If someone is under the influence of drugs or alcohol or resistant because of a mental health condition or trust issues:

- Ask if they have friends or family they could call and stay with in emergency (like now).
- If their friends are with them, see if their friends will go in for camaraderie.
- If they are intoxicated, see if they are willing to go to the Guest House.*
- If it is safe and feasible, get them somewhere to warm up/sober up a little and try again.
- Offer food, water, gift cards, and/or cigarettes to build trust and then try again.
- If they refuse to come in, offer them supplies to stay warm. If you are concerned, call an OTN staff member, the Cold Patrol,* or the non-emergency number* to request a wellness check.

If someone really won't come in:

- Offer whatever survival supplies that can get them through the night. Even if the person refuses them, leave them nearby.
- Talk through/build their survival strategy together.
- Offer a gift card to a 24-hour store or restaurant.
- Come back later to try again.
- Help find a "safe" sleep spot (and remember it).
- If you are concerned, call an OTN staff member, the Cold Patrol,* or the non-emergency number* to request a wellness check.
- Try to mobilize funds for a hotel in extreme situations.
